How This Announcement Impacts Your Deployment

If your deployment includes components affected by this announcement, immediate action is not necessary: Vidyo will make available software updates and technical support per the table above.

Please note, however, that future features may require computing capabilities that exceed those of your hardware, and will therefore not be available for that hardware.

As always, Vidyo is happy to help you migrate to a currently shipping physical or virtual platform at any time.

(*) Succeeding products fulfill most of the preceding product's functionality, though some functionality differs. Please contact your sales person for further information.
